

how do you snake a drain for a) man who b) would always snake his own drain
c) can no longer snake a drain?

everything is everything and this is no different.

it all comes down to dignity. and it all comes down to something different for everyone. say what you will, my generation has no use for etiquette that masquerades as respect but withholds and awards dignity. why is dignity doled out based on an imaginary paradigm of ability, of Independence?

The chasm between the ways they each express their love is spreads arms

She wanted the words and he imitates Can't you see ?

to us, him and him and me, it strikes like failure when i have to resort to words. if i have to tell you, it means i failed to show you. my only job, to prove that i care for you

My day job, is to prove that it's worthwhile to care.

For those who need just as much help, but are still building up

I have failed if I taught you to use a spoon, but didn't teach you that other people are so important. they are whole entire worlds.

I have failed so often for $12 an hour

say thank you

say thank you

say thank you, please?

how do you talk to a) man who b) doesn't appreciate his wife's help

c) appreciates you helping his wife?

he sees less and he notices more, knows how much she has to do, if only because he knows, intimately the slack she's picking up.

what do you say?

what do you say?

what do you say?

how do you understand a) man who b) doesn't make sense to you

c) taught you how to make sense hold the photo only by the edges, when you point at it, your finger hovers away from the glossy surface. something i was surprised to have to teach, because i don't remember learning it. dont remember not knowing it.

paint with the grain. slick the water off of you with your hand before wrapping yourself in the towel. no one has to tell you to do things that make sense, but someone teaches you to make sense.

How do we make it easier to put on a belt? Sweatpants.

I want to know how to tell everyone that it's so funny and that it's not a joke at all. to honor to honor. to honor. to honor.